

The Rainforests of New York: a Trail of Destruction.

The New York City government is the largest consumer of tropical hardwoods in North America (and probably the world beyond the tropics)!

Every second, two acres of rainforests are destroyed. This destruction results in the extinction of an estimated 100 species of unique life forms each and every day.
